The Chase
By Nat Christian

I was chasing my childhood with every minute passing.
I would change every minute growing older farther away from my childhood.
It was to be an eternal chase, never to be gotten